

Have you ever wished that you could've become someone different than you are today?

I'm sure most of us are happy being who we are, but think harder, what about a different career or living in another country?

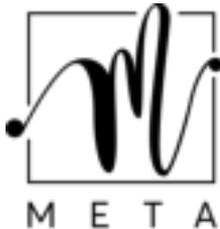

I would've wanted to become a journalist in my younger days, maybe someone else might've wished to be a singer or married to a politician, that means money, success, travelling, meeting important people.... but can you imagine? You'd be under the spotlights all the time!

Now speaking about myself, I wouldn't mind being rich.

Why?

Because I'd help orphanages and would buy myself a plane, and do you know why? Cause I'd be able to visit my children who live in Sicily every weekend but again this is only a wish which makes me dream more and this gives me hope that it may all come true one day.

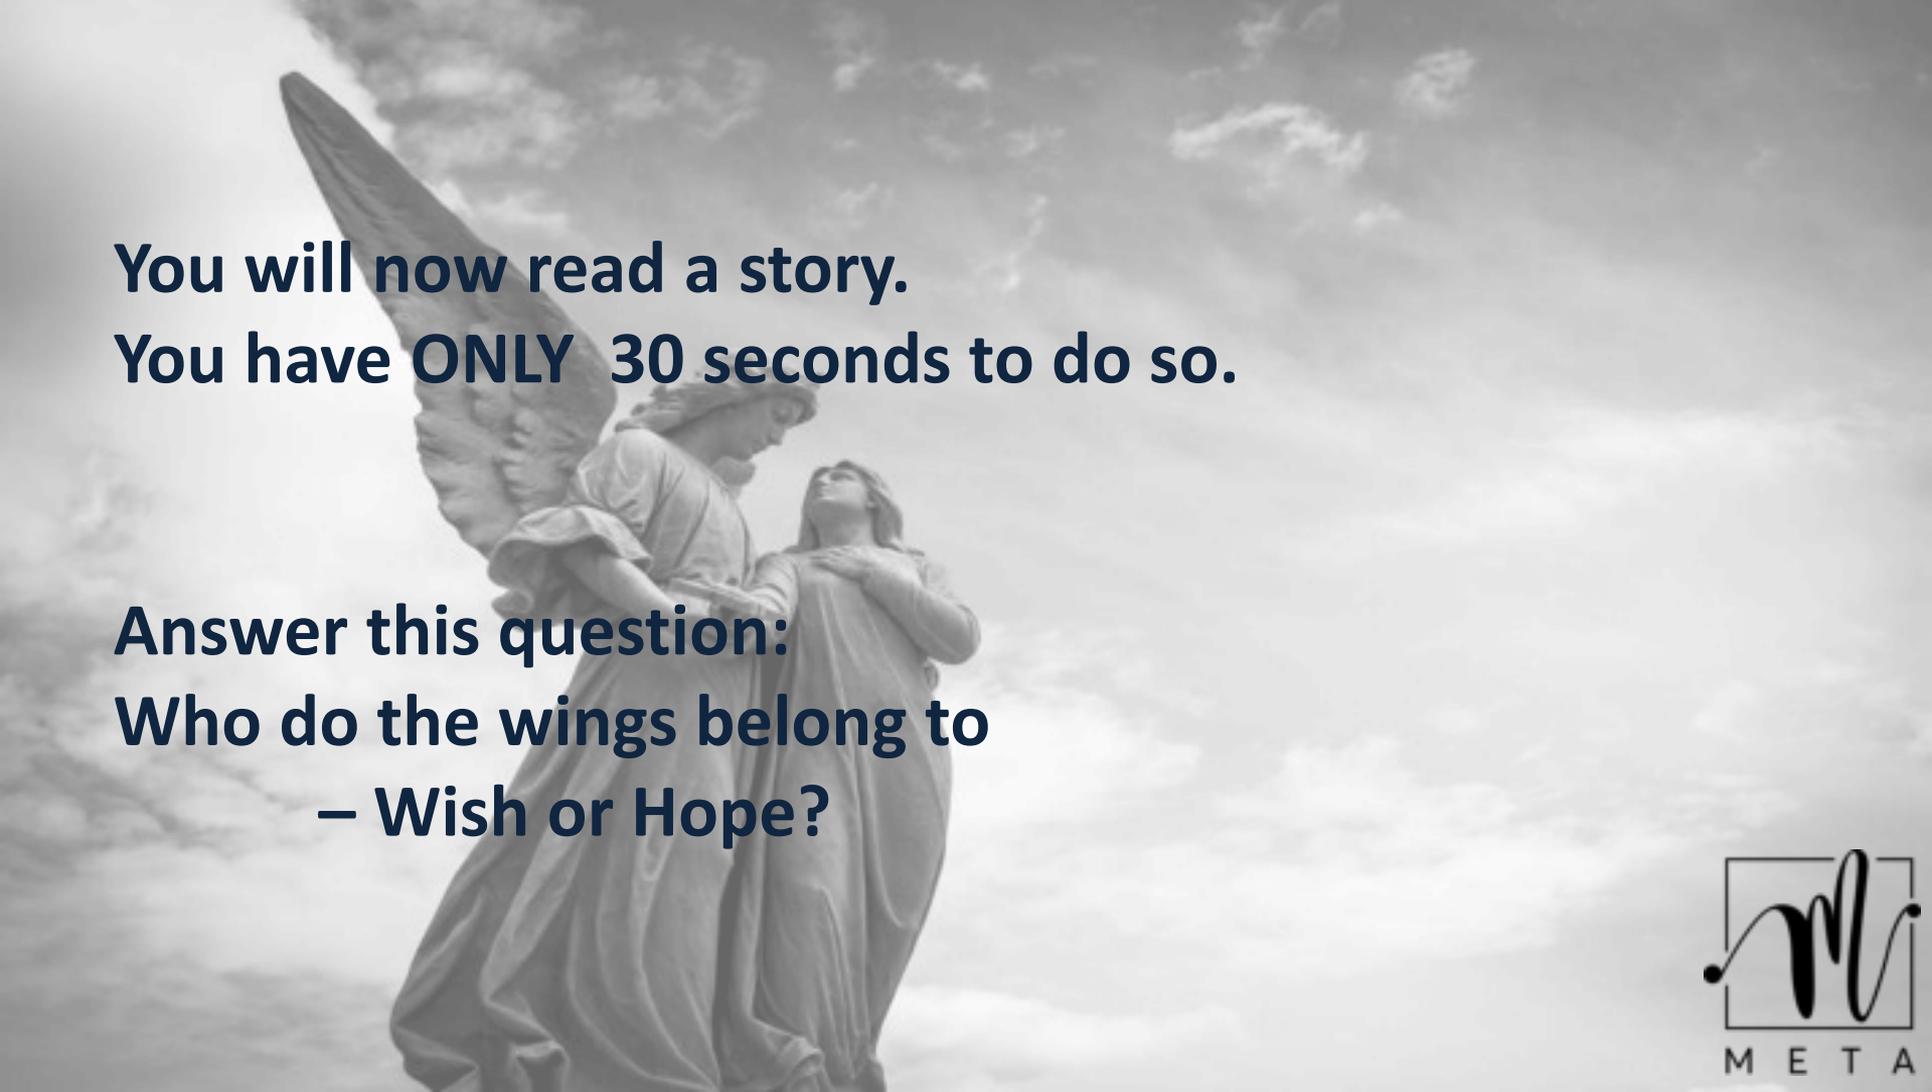

But what is hope?

Hope is something people believe will happen,
and this is what I hope for now:

- ✓ I hope world hunger goes away.
- ✓ I hope to see my children real soon, I haven't hugged them for seven months.
- ✓ I hope that cruelty towards animals disappears.
